Acknowledgment of Assistance

All manuscripts utilizing data made available through the National Juvenile Court Data Archive should acknowledge that fact as well as identify the original data source. In addition, some adaptation of the following statement should be used in any manuscript produced using these data:

The data utilized in this publication were housed in and made available by the National Juvenile Court Data Archive which is maintained by the National Center for Juvenile Justice in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, and supported by a grant from the Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention, U.S. Department of Justice. The data were originally collected by the Texas Juvenile Probation Commission. Neither the Texas Juvenile Probation Commission nor the National Center for Juvenile Justice bear any responsibility for the analyses or interpretations presented herein.

In order to provide funding agencies with essential information about the use of archival resources and to monitor Archive users' research activities, every user of Archive data is asked to send a copy of each completed manuscript or thesis abstract to the National Juvenile Court Data Archive. In the cover letter please indicate which data were used.

INTRODUCTION

History of Texas Juvenile Court Statistics

In 1984, only a few departments had some form of automated case tracking system. The Texas Juvenile Probation Commission produced the CASEWORKER data management program in order to allow all departments access to such a system. The system has undergone several revisions, CASEWORKER 4 being the latest version. At the time this codebook was written, 156 out of 164 departments (95 %) were using the system. This represents 65 % of the juvenile population of Texas. The remaining eight departments each operate their own system.

Data Collection Methods

The data represented in this codebook were collected using CASEWORKER 4. The data management system begins collecting information at case intake and continues through detention, disposition, supervision and placement. Probation and restitution payments, chronological notes, as well as the names and addresses of family and associates can also be recorded. At the time the data described in this codebook were collected, the Texas Juvenile Probation Commission only collected aggregate data for its own uses. The detailed data described in this codebook were the result of a special annual request by NCJJ for the data from the Texas Juvenile Probation Commission, who in turn requested the detailed data file from each of the counties. Counties were asked to voluntarily submit these data, therefore there may be gaps in the coverage of the data across counties.

Archived Data Files

The extract of the Texas juvenile court data we received came as two data files: One file for Harris County and one file for all other counties. Both files were in the same format. Several counties do not use Caseworker to collect their data, but send Texas Juvenile Probation Commission a derived data file based on Caseworker specifications (Bexar, Harris, Tarrant, Travis). The record structure of the extract of the Texas Juvenile Probation Commission's information system includes nine record types which are the source of the information stored in the Archive. The first is a Decode Record which contains the full names for abbreviated codes used in the data file. The second is a Child Record which contains demographic information about the juvenile, including such things as a unique personal ID number, a ZIP code, and educational information. This record occurs once per juvenile.

The Referral Record is the third record found, and occurs once for each referral. It contains such things as referral dates and any offense and petition information, in addition to a unique referral number. The fourth, the Detention Record, may occur multiple times for each referral. It contains information about the type and dates for each time the juvenile was detained. Alternative education for placed juveniles is described in a fifth record, the JJAEP Record.

The sixth record, the Offense Record, where each offense for each referral is described. The Offense Record describes each offense in terms of weapon use, gang involvement, and substance abuse involvement. Information about the dates of any placement facility stay is found in the seventh, the Placement Record. Information about each program in which a child is placed is found on the eighth record, the Program Record. The ninth, the Supervision Record, records the different types and durations of any supervision of the juvenile.

The Archive selects and retains variables of interest and then a case-level file is created by combining these records in a single-record format. Referrals are grouped under the appropriate Child Record. Offenses, placements, and supervision records are stacked under each referral. For any particular juvenile, cases are based on the information about all offenses referred on the same date.

The Texas data files stored in the Archive are a product of an automated restructuring of a youth's demographic and referral records. The restructuring program, which was designed and written by Archive staff, abstracted data from a youth's set of demographic and referral records to create a set of fixed format case records. The Archive defines a case as a youth processed by the court on a new referral regardless of the number of offenses contained in that referral. Therefore the courts processing of a youth charged with three robberies in a single referral would be represented by one case record. However, the courts processing of a youth referred to intake for one burglary and referred for another the following week would be represented by two separate case records.

The first part of the archived case record contains demographic information on the youth. This information (i.e., unique youth identification number, zip code, sex, birth date, and ethnicity) is copied directly from the demographic record and is common to all case records involving the same youth.

The second part of the record contains the youth's county of residence, referral date, intake decision date, and disposition date. It also describes offense(s) referred, intake decision(s), court's processing of the case, disposition, and criminal history information. The archived record captures the three most serious offenses referred in the case. The decision rule used to select the most serious offense uses the severity ratings developed by the Archive staff. These rankings are found in Appendix I. For each case, dispositions were ranked by severity and the most severe disposition attached to each case record.

Each case record contains 209 variables. The data in the files are stored in numeric characters (which are whole numbers) unless otherwise noted. The data are stored in single year files. The number of case records in each calendar year data file is as follows:

Year	Records
1999	131,399
2000	126,390
2001	129,605
2002	125,535
2003	138,291

Terms of Availability

Each request to use these data should be directed to the Archive. The Archive will contact the Texas Juvenile Probation Commission regarding their release. Upon the Commission's authorization to release and disseminate the data, the data files will be supplied to the requester by the Archive with any necessary cautions or restrictions.

The Archive provides the data on magnetic media AS IS and shall not be held responsible for any liability incurred as a result of any error or omission in the data as it appears on the magnetic media. However, should any inconsistencies be found, the Archive asks to be notified so that corrections can be made to the data.

All questions and requests should be addressed to:

Summary tabulations for juvenile cases for each county in Texas are publicly available beginning with 1982 data through the Inter-university Consortium for Political and Social Research at the University of Michigan, P.O. Box 1248, Ann Arbor, Michigan. 48106.

USING THE CODEBOOK

The information that follows is based on a study of available documentation from the data supplier, interviews with the data supplier and court personnel, and diagnostic analyses performed by the Archive staff. The example below is a reproduction of information appearing in the codebook for a typical variable. The numbers in brackets do not appear in the codebook, but are references to the descriptions which follow this example.

COLUMN WIDTH	VARIABLE NUMBER	CODE VALUE AND DESCRIPTION

	[7] (99)	Missing
	[8]	NOTE:

- [1]        The starting location and width of the variable in the machine-readable data file. This is the format information needed to read the data into other systems.
- [2]        The variable number. The variable number is used as a variable name when the file is processed by systems which use alphabetic variable names (e.g. SPSS).
- [3]        The variable label used by statistical systems to identify the variable or program output.
- [4]        A description of the variable contents.
- [5]        The code values occurring in the data for the variable. If the variable is a year, the symbol ## represents the most current year for which data are available.
- [6]        The textual definitions of the codes. The first 20 characters form a short value label which some systems use to document the output of analysis programs. A longer description follows the short label when necessary.
- [7]        The designation of missing data. The Archive staff has replaced any out-of-bounds codes with missing data codes. Many analysis packages require that certain types of data which are usually excluded from analysis be designated as "missing data." Fields with no entry were left blank and "( ) No entry" is listed as a code value. Some variables also have response options representing "unknown" which are also listed as code values.
- [8]        An explanatory/cautionary note.

REFERRAL-LEVEL VARIABLES – Variables TX138 through TX146 are based on all Offense Records in the original hierarchical file (not only the three most serious offenses). Each variable is coded as "Yes" if any offense associated with the referral met the particular condition described.

NOTE: These variables were not consistently used across counties, hence the third code.

500/1	TX138	WAS A FIREARM USED? Was a firearm used in any offense associated with this referral? NOTE: In the original hierarchical data file received from TJPC, there was a general "Weapon Used" variable and a detailed "Firearm Code" variable. The Firearm Code variable was to be used when the Weapon Used was coded as "Firearm". A crosstabulation of these two variables showed some inconsistency. The "Weapon Used" variable was used and codes representing "Ammunition" and "Firearm" were recoded to indicate firearm use in TX138 variable. (1) Yes (2) No (3) Not available from this county

Original Data Collector's Statement of Acceptance

STATEMENT OF ACCEPTANCE

I have reviewed Texas Juvenile Court Case Records: 1993 - 1994 User's Guide and accept them as accurate descriptions of the delinquency and status data stored at the National Juvenile Court Data Archive and of the methods used by the Texas Juvenile Probation Commission to collect these data. The user's guide may be revised to cover future years' data unless there are such major changes in the data collected as to warrant completely new documentation.
